A palpable sense of enthusiasm was evident as 17 shooters went about setting up the range for the first event in 2020, and the halfway mark of our event calendar. We returned to the range after a six week long break, during which the festive season was and will continue to be marred with the horror of watching the suffering and hardship all around our great country. Here's hoping that relief comes soon to all those affected, and the rebuilding can get underway.

The Ahrens 300-yard event however could be summed up with two words; "what happened?". Less than a third of the competitors managed to use less than 200% of handicap and no-one made limit. The variable wind, while predominately from the right, flicked around frequently and mirage was often at odds with the flags. The 300-yard range promises an easy high score, and when winds are light or at least consistent, this is often the case. Saturday's event reminded many that all of the ducks have to line up to hold a high level of confidence to the last shot. Well done to Jim Taylor who used 126% to take the trophy. An honourable mention goes to 1st time visitor, Harry Allington, ably coached by Steve Smithson to a 100.01 in F/TR. If it weren't for a crossfire, then the score would have been in the mix with the top off-rifle F Class scores on the day. Next week. T & C Andrews Trophy Stage 1. 600 Yards.
